

Lancaster, South Carolina is a developing county that with every passing day is growing in a variety of ways. There is expansion in small, corporate, and chain businesses throughout the county, and with COVID-19 lowering interest rates, in turn making it a great time for house buying, many people are moving here and moving within our county. All of this brings us here: Lancaster has a lot and is growing by the day, but we are lacking a moving company. We do not have a moving company that is located near the city, for the convenience of most of the county. When in need of moving services, the closest option is 40 minutes from the Buford area, and even further from lower parts of the county. This is impractical and causes money that could be used internally in our county to go to moving companies outside of Lancaster. As a growing county in the middle of a pandemic, it is important now more than ever to keep money flowing to businesses within our county, especially the family-owned ones. Modern Day Movers is a family-owned moving company that can add to the variety of our businesses and provide necessary economic assistance. It will be benefitting the needs of Lancaster's people throughout the county and providing a convenience that will make a customer feel good, knowing they are helping Lancaster's economy and overall growth.
